Independence Day

The GeeKay World School celebrated Independence Day on 15.8.23 with a lot of patriotic fervour. It was a day when we paid tributes to a number of great freedom fighters who spent their entire life to free India from British rule. With unity in diversity, we honour our nation's heroes and celebrate the spirit of independence. Our Independence Day is a reminder of the sacrifices made by our ancestors, and a chance to reflect on the progress we have made as a nation. On this momentous occasion, we also remember the challenges that lie ahead and the responsibilities we carry to build a better India.

The event started off with the hoisting of the Tricolour by our Head of School, Mr. Ram Kumar, followed by the singing of our National Anthem.

The Welcome Address was delivered by the Head Boy, Zuhair Hassan. This was followed by the Independence Day song and an English and Tamil speech by the students.

The highlight of the celebration was the re-enactment of the life history of the legend Maveeran Alagumuthukone. This reminded us of the sacrifices of great heroes like Alagamuthukone who made us enjoy the freedom and privileges that we have today. This was an integration of dance and music to add up to the life story depicted on stage. This also unfurled some of the pages of history, unknown to most of us about some of the unsung heroes who sacrificed their lives for us to bless us with this freedom that we enjoy today. The gathering was then addressed by our Head of School, Mr. Ram Kumar with his wise words and encouragement. This address opened up our eyes to certain vital facts of the Indian Independence and the Independence of the Union Territories. He also elaborated on the motivational Acronym 'CAR' where C stands for change, A stands for Acceptance and R stands for Rise above what you cannot change. The event for the day came to a culmination with the Vote of Thanks by the Head Girl, Benakashree Vijaykumar. To survive in peace and harmony, united and strong, we must be one nation under our Tricolour.

IGCSE - Field Trip

On 14th August, 2023, students of G10 IGCSE and A-level went on a field trip to Kanchanagiri Hills to learn about the practical application of constructing quadrats in ecological research. Quadrats are essential tools used in sampling and studying ecosystems, aiding in the assessment of biodiversity, population density, and species distribution. Their objective was to understand the significance of quadrats in ecological studies and to gain hands-on experience in constructing and using them. The field trip began with an informative session led by Ms. Priya (Biology facilitator), introducing the concept of quadrats. After the introduction, students were divided into two groups. Each group proceeded to construct their own quadrats. They were provided with ropes and measuring scales. Each quadrat had dimensions to suit the study area's requirements. Students carefully measured and marked the corners of the quadrat to ensure an accurate representation of the chosen area. Once the quadrats were positioned, they identified and recorded all plant species within each quadrat, noting their abundance, height, and other relevant observations. Additionally, they also collected data on soil characteristics, such as moisture content and pH, to understand their influence on plant distribution.

The field trip about constructing quadrats was an enlightening experience that provided students with practical insights into ecological research techniques. Through hands-on construction and placement of quadrats, they gained a deeper understanding of their significance in assessing biodiversity and studying ecosystem dynamics. This field trip underscored the importance of systematic sampling and data collection in ecological studies, equipping them with valuable skills for future scientific endeavors.

Student Articles

On 16th of August, 2023, the students of 10 IGCSE interviewed their highly esteemed Head of School, Mr. Ramkumar. Ms. Deepa, our Value Education Facilitator helped us conduct this informative session. Students had numerous questions that they needed answers to. The children were eager to know, "What made him, the man that he is today?" and "Did he face similar challenges like us?" the interview was absolutely illuminating. An issue Mr. Ramkumar faced was acceptance. As a young Vice Principal, it took time for people to accept him as a leader, as most of them were quite older than him. He said, "C A R is something we all need to follow". It was "change, accept change, and remove or rise above the challenge." He also stressed the fact that "self-introspection is very important for a teacher". Being a good one takes a lot of self-questioning, that's when entelechy will hit teachers and help them in self-evaluation. He also believes that a happy school creates great children, and we all believe that he strives to do so. Lastly, he strongly said, "You are your own competitor." Competing with ourselves, battling our strengths and weaknesses, makes us more stronger and wiser. The students acquired a lot of knowledge, and important self values to follow in life. They had an informative and great time, leaving the room with useful principles in hand.

Teacher Talk

What is mathematics?

You might have asked yourself what mathematics actually is and why it is so different from the other disciplines. "Mathematics is the discipline studying quantities, forms, and the relationships between them." This is the standard dictionary definition, but it does not satisfy us as either students, teachers or researchers because surely you have felt that mathematics means more than that.

Searching on the internet, you will find various definitions, some of them beautiful from a literary-stylistic point of view, or with great philosophical substance, but certainly you will not find a definition that reflects the nature of mathematics in its entire complexity. Here is the list of my top favorite such definitions are:

"Mathematics is ..."

"Mathematics is the music of reason." (Paul Lockhart)

"Mathematics is the poetry of the universe." (Jonathan David Farley)

"Mathematics is the queen of the sciences." (Carl Friedrich Gauss)

"An equation means nothing to me unless it expresses a thought of God." (Srinivasa Ramanujan)

According to me.....

'Mathematics is not only a discipline, a method, and a language, applicable to other disciplines or methods of knowledge, but also to mathematics itself. It is a mode of organizing, validating, and communicating knowledge, which uses the principles of logic and gives it a field of manifestation and application that is "pure," free from contingency, and free from the confusion of natural language, in which the truths of propositions are universally valid and do not depend on any interpretation. It is not only a discipline entitled to investigate concepts of any nature and any degree of generality, but also is self-referential and self-applicable.

It is my way of defining the amazing complexity of mathematics

LET THE BOAT SINK

Let the boat sink
 Why would you want it to float
 Because, you never really cared to fix the initial scrape
 Now sobbing inside a cape
 Would it help, it doesn't
 At least at present
 Let the boat sink
 Ever feared of water?
 Now I descend and totter
 Seconds pass by
 And I learned to swim you may presume
 But what I actually did learn
 Is to live in the baritone blue sea and resume
 Let the boat sink
 Mermaids don't belong on the terrain
 Nevertheless on the terrain,
 They crossed fingers for the rain
 Don't consume so much pain
 To rescue her again
 Let the boat sink
 As you always do....

Falling to bits!!!

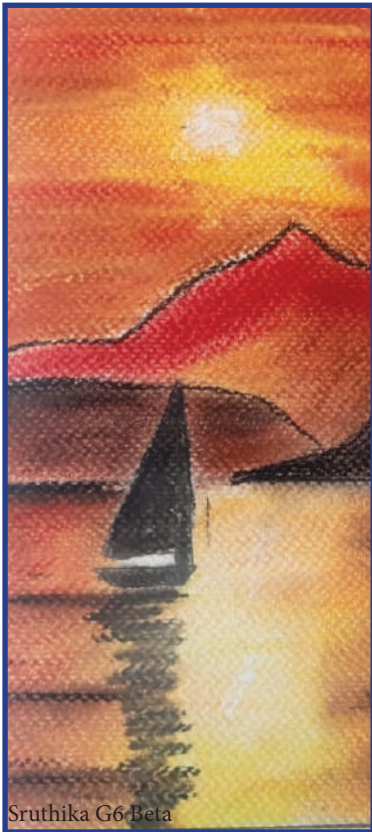

Grouped together
 With minds on wheels
 Swirling around
 Hunting too and fro
 Some on giggles
 Some on continuous pricks
 Some finicky
 Some cold-pressed
 Oh! Oh!! Oh!!! Should I do it???

Some nerves pop out this question
 But the tutor
 Eavesdrop to what's messy!!!
 Oh!!! What a perverted thinking!
 It works finally. With time limits
 With words counted
 With locutions hunted and haunted
 Looking for dictionaries
 Hawky eyes . Commanding care
 Wow!!! What a fair!!!
